STRATO BALLOON SETS NEW RECORD

75,000 Attend Armistice Day Parade At Anaheim

STREETS ARE LINED WITH BIG CROWDS

ORANGE COUNTY CONTACTING RIVERSIDE ON WATER PLANS

PEACE PLEDGED BY PRESIDENT AT ARLINGTON

Mother Colony Host to Entire County in Annual Celebration Today

A NAHEIM, Nov. 11.—(UP) — A crowd estimated at approximately 75,000 witnessed one of the most elaborate of Orange county Armistice Day celebrations today, held for the fourth time in the city in which they originated.

All day long Anaheim streets were lined with throngs from other cities and towns in the Southland. From the earliest parade forms this morning visitors seemed to be infested with the friendly, enthusiastic holiday spirit.

The parade, which was the outstanding feature of the day, although the 30-minute horse show, the football game, and the grand ball at the Elks club tonight were expected to attract thousands, started promptly at 11:02 a. m., after a two-minute silence, with the sounding of taps, progressing on a route differing this year than other years. An effort was made to take the parade north on Los Angeles, then to the park, where the reviewing stand was, then west to Lincoln boulevard so that the western part of the town could be included in the line of march.

Long Parade

Ninety minutes in length, the parade was characterized with more elaborate floats this year and fewer undecorated cars with little meaning. The patriotic theme was of course used in all the floats, as many as three choosing the Betsy Ross idea and two of the floats, entered by two school systems, building their decorations around the Liberty Bell theme.

Opposes Arms

Any aggression by the United States, leading toward or contributing toward war, said Mr. Roosevelt, is unthinkable. He promised that the United States would never enter into any race of armaments nor seek to arm herself with weapons other than those needed for our own defense.

The primary purpose of this nation, said Mr. Roosevelt, is to avoid being drawn into war and to seek in every practicable way to promote peace and discourage war.

However, he warned, "America must and will protect herself."

The president struck hard at those who sought to profit from the tragedy of war.

"Except for those few who have placed or who place temporary selfish gain ahead of national or world peace," he said, "the overwhelming mass of American citizens are in hearty accord with these basic policies of our government, as they are also entirely sympathetic with the efforts of other nations to end war."

Realistic View

He took a realistic view of international conditions and commented upon the fact that "most serious of all, international confidence in the sacredness of international contracts is on the wane."

As an offset to the threats and jealousies of world powers, Mr. Roosevelt announced that he and premier William Mackenzie King of Canada had agreed upon first principals of a trade treaty between the two nations, expected to in-

HUGE CHINA CLIPPER LEAVES SAN DIEGO FOR ALAMEDA BAY

BOARD THE CHINA CLIPPER, EN ROUTE TO SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—(UP)—The airman's dream of regular trans-oceanic plane service was within two weeks of reality today as Pan-American Airways' 25-ton flying boat, most advanced aircraft of its type in the world, roared toward its new base at Alameda on San Francisco bay.

The grey, black-and-red trimmed four-motored plane, churning a wake blown into mist and momentary rainbows by the blast from its three-bladed propellers, lifted from San Diego harbor at 10:10 a. m. on the last leg of its flight from Miami, Fla.

Thousands of spectators lined the waterfront and coast highway as the giant plane skinned off the water after mile-long run. It was as smooth a takeoff as ever witnessed here.

Twenty-five Pan-American officials and newspapermen were aboard in addition to the crew of six.

With Captain Edwin C. Musick handling the controls and Flight Officers George King and F. S. K. Lewis standing by as relief pilots, the plane was expected to reach San Francisco within four hours.

Leaves Nov. 22

On November 22, according to present plans, the ship, heavily loaded with cachet mail, will make its first run to the Orient via Hawaii, Midway Island, Wake Island, Guam, the Philippines and Canton.

Luxuriously appointed with accommodations for 30 overnight or 48 day passengers in addition to the crew of six, the plane has provisions for "almost anything except a dance" as one passenger remarked as he climbed aboard.

A kitchen, tiny, but still as large as those of thousands of three-room-walk-up apartments, will furnish meals. Rest rooms are in the rear of the ship and wash basins with hot and cold running water appear magically at the touch of a lever on what ordinarily appears to be a modernized table in the central cabin.

Both groups were waiting in the fashionable coliseum cafe to march to the Arc de Triomphe, where the unknown soldier is buried. Chairs and tables were hurled and many windows broken.

Police dispersed the fighters. Jean Reynaud, head of the Solidarite, although he did not take part in the fight, was wounded. He was given first aid treatment in the cafe.

SEX EDUCATION IS FAVERED AT FRESNO PARLEY

Preparations for Marriage Urged by Young Methodists Convention

FRESNO, Calif., Nov. 11.—(UP) — Sex education through the church in preparation for marriage was urged today in a report adopted by the Methodist youth San Francisco area assembly in concluding business of their three-day convention here.

The report on sex education was the first of 18 commission reports to be submitted throughout the day to the 800 delegates from California, Arizona and Nevada attending the convention.

"It is our conviction that the church should undertake a definite program of education in matters of sex in preparation for marriage and in the principals of Christian family life," read the report, which was unanimously accepted when placed on the assembly floor.

The report recommended that the following specific steps be taken in the sex education program:

1. Set up in church library a special section of books dealing with these subjects.

2. Prepare a suitable Bibliography of available material for study.

3. Set up "quest groups" in these subjects for young people.

.... Parent Classes

4. Organize parent education classes so as to facilitate the introduction of proper training for younger children in the home.

5. Urge pastors to train themselves so as to provide necessary counsel.

The delegates are scheduled to act on the remaining commission reports, which have been prepared by 10 section groups, later in the day.

In a speech to the delegates yesterday, Dr. Roy L. Smith, pastor of the first Methodist Episcopal church, Los Angeles, banded war as a prostitution of the noblest virtues and "the greatest single problem that faces youth in this dangerous world."

If the youth of today is going to fight the next war, pay the bills, suffer the consequences stand before machine gun fire, breathe poison gas, die under air bombs, then they have a right to discuss and decide what they shall say, think and act," Dr. Smith said.

The refugees from the Silver Hazel, owned by the British Silver lines, were huddled on a rock near San Bernardino island off the coast of Luzon, main island of the Philippines group.

They reached there, apparently in the ship's boats, after the Silver Hazel grounded during a tropical storm and began to split up. The after part of the freighter sank.

There was no S.O.S. Apparently the ship broke up so quickly there was no time to flash the radio appeal. But the New York, the island steamship Taff and the O.S.K. line freighter Chicago Maru were in the vicinity and went to the Silver Hazel's aid. Owners of the abandoned boat appealed also to the U. S. navy for assistance and the Perry was sent from Manila.

We dare not let the pagan mind make up the Christian mind. No greater sacrifice exists on the face of the earth than that Armistice day should be dedicated to the glorification of militarism.

"Go to the hospitals, bring out the wounded soldiers, go to the homes and bring out the Gold Star mothers, bring the crosses from the cemeteries—let them parades—that all the world shall not forget how the Armistice day came to be.

SAN DIEGO FAIR TO CLOSE DOORS TODAY

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Nov. 11.—(UP) — Armistice ceremonies combined with last day festivities today as the California Pacific International Exposition, America's fair of 1935, was to close until January 15, 1936.

Corporal Joe Galli, top bugler of the Thirtieth Infantry's provisional company, will sound taps at midnight from the top of California tower to officially signalize close of the $20,000,000 exhibit playground. But the gates will remain open until nearly dawn when late celebrants will be swept out along with the litter of the last day celebration.

Special forces of police officers have been assigned to the fair for the final night to forestall possible vandalism or souvenir-hunting by overzealous merry-makers.

BULLETIN

The board of supervisors' consulting board of engineers threw the responsibility of a water program that will satisfy voters back into the lap of the supervisors, according to Roy Browning, engineer favoring the modified program, who had returned today from a consultation with the consulting board in San Francisco. The consulting board, he said, takes a position that any of the projects in the original plan can be excluded by the board of supervisors only. The engineers on the consulting board still maintain that the county should have two and a half times as much protection than would take care of the 1916 flood. Browning said it looks hopeless for the flood control plan and that an election on bonds must be delayed for at least six months.

The report recommended that the following specific steps be taken in the sex education program:

NO TRACE FOUND OF KINGSFORD-SMITH

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, Nov. 11.—(UP) — Royal air force bombing planes received new orders today to make a last thorough search of the Andaman Sea and the Bay of Bengal for Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith and J. T. Pethybridge, his co-pilot, missing since Friday on a flight from England to Australia.

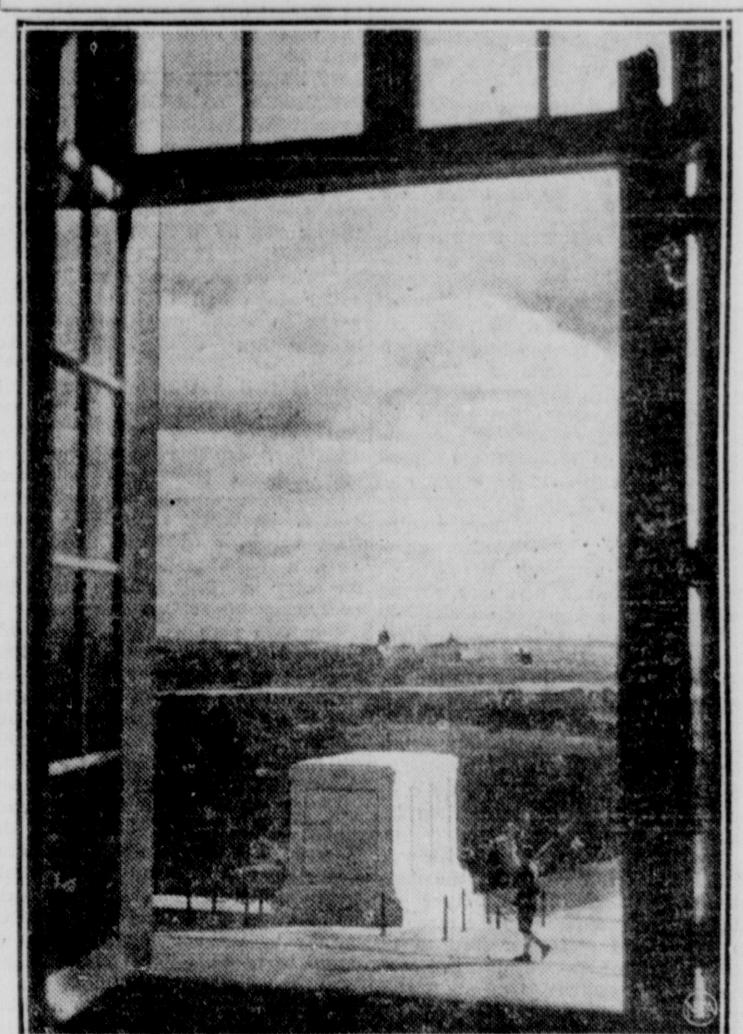

The planes will fly low over all islands, hoping Kingsford-Smith's Lady Southern Cross may have drifted ashore.

C. J. Melrose, who saw Kingsford-Smith fighting to keep his plane aloft over the bay, suggested he might have been able to gain height and reached an uninhabited island. The bay is calm and there remained some hope that the plane as afoul.

Officials here said they would not abandon the search as long as any remote hope remained.

IN MEMORIAM—NOV. 11, 1918

Silently pacing his post before a white marble tomb in Arlington National cemetery in Washington, a living soldier of 1935 keeps watch over the resting place of "An American Soldier Known Only to God." Today, 17 years after the Armistice day of 1918 which ended the World war, this mute monument seems to send a message across the Potomac to the Capitol, seen in the distance.

Capt. Stevens Calmly Reads Cosmic Ray Instrument to Ground by Radio

RAPID CITY, S. D., Nov. 11.—(UP) — The stratosphere balloon, Explorer II, appearing over the north Nebraska plains as a tiny speck, set a new world's record in altitude today.

Shortly before noon Capt. Albert W. Stevens, flight commander and technical observer, reported that the giant balloon had reached an altitude of 67,000 feet.

The official world's record is 61,237 feet although a Russian balloon in 1934 ascended 72,200 feet. The crew were killed, however, in a crash.

At 11:55 a. m. CST the Explorer II had reached an altitude of 67,000 feet, almost equaling the unofficial mark of the Soviet balloon.

The huge helium filled bag drifted leisurely into Nebraska at 11 a. m. Observers on the ground at Valentine, Neb., reported it was moving very slowly in a south-easterly direction.

Captain Stevens and Capt. Orval A. Anderson, the pilot, had started the ascent at 8:01 a. m. CST from the sheltered cliff-faced bowl in the Black Hills region southwest of here.

Third Attempt

It was their third attempt on the altitude record. The first attempt last year ended in a crash near Holdredge, Neb., about 200 miles southeast of the point where the new record was set today.

Earlier this autumn the second attempt ended when the canvas ripped at the takeoff, deflating the bag.

Captain Stevens reported back to Washington by radio to the sponsors of the flight, the National Geographic Society and the army, that when the official world's record was bettered the temperature inside the metal gondola was 21 degrees Fahrenheit above zero. Outside the gondola the mercury had dropped to 76 degrees below zero.

"The windows of the gondola are frosty and we have to wipe them off," Captain Stevens reported by radio. "The bag is now 85 percent full and we are now going up."

This report was made at 11:27 a. m.

73,000 Feet

At 12:10 p. m. Explorer II had attained a height of 73,000 feet. Captain Stevens reported, almost 15 miles.

Captain Stevens, congratulated over his short wave radio set, on setting the new record, replied: "Yea, that's right."

Inside the metal gondola the airmen were kept alive by oxygen tanks. Outside the void was blue black. From the ground it scarcely was visible.

Shortly after noon the balloon seemed to change its direction, the United Press correspondent at Valentine, Neb., reported. The drift at that time appeared to be in a westward direction. Weather observers at Valentine predicted it would land southwest of Valentine perhaps in the western Ne-

ATTITUDE ON DAM BUILDING BEING SOUGHT

President's Armistice Day Message

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(UP) that the youth of America, as a whole, is not trapped by that delusion. They know that elation and prosperity which may come from a new war must lead—for those who survive—to economic and social collapse more sweeping than any we have experienced in the past. While, therefore, we cannot and must not hide our concern for grave world dangers, and while, at the same time, we cannot build walls around ourselves and hide our heads in the sand, we must go forward with all our strength to stress and to strive for international peace.

We Americans were so placed that we gained a perspective of the great world conflict that was perhaps clearer than that of our fellow men who were closer to the scene of battle. For most of the first three years of the war, we were not participants; but during the final phase we ourselves engaged on many fronts.

For that reason, perhaps, we understood, as well as any, the cries that went up—that the world conflict should be made a war to end war.

We were not invaded nor were we threatened with invasion then or later; but the very distance of our view led us to perceive the dire results of war through days of following peace.

The primary purpose of this nation is to avoid being drawn into war. It seeks also in every practicable way to promote peace and to discourage war. Except for those few who have placed or who place temporary, selfish gain ahead of national or world peace, the overwhelming mass of American citizens are in hearty accord with these basic policies of our government, as they are also entirely sympathetic with the efforts of other nations to end war.

That is why we have striven with great consistency to approve steps to remove the causes of war and to disapprove steps taken by others to commit acts of aggression.

We have either led or performed our full part in every important attempt to limit and reduce armaments. We have sought by definite act and solemn commitment to establish the United States as a good neighbor among nations. We are acting to simplify definitions and facts by calling war "war" when armed invasion and a resulting killing of human beings take place.

Course Is Clear

But though our course is consistent and clear, it is with disappointment and sorrow that we confess that the world's gain thus far has been small.

I would not be frank with you if I did not tell you that the dangers that confront the future of mankind as a whole are greater than the world and therefore to us than the dangers which confront the people of the United States by and in themselves alone.

Jealousies between nations continue; armaments increase; national ambitions that disturb the world's peace are thrust forward. Most serious of all, international confidence in the sacredness of international contracts is on the wane.

The memory of our hopes of 1917 and 1918 dies with the death of those of us who took part;

it is, therefore, your sacred obligation and mine, by conscious effort, to pass that memory on to succeeding generations. A new generation, even in its cradle or still unborn, is coming to the fore. The children in our schools, the young men and women passing through our colleges into productive life have, unlike us, no direct knowledge of the meaning of war. They are not immune to the glamour of war, to the opportunities to escape from the drabness and worry of hard times at home in the glory and heroism of the arms factory and the battlefield. Fortunately, there is evidence on every hand

Agreement Reached

I am, therefore, happy to be able to tell you on Armistice day that the Canadian prime minister and I, after thoughtful discussion of our national problems, have reached a definite agreement which will eliminate disagreements and unreasonable restrictions, and thus work to the advantage of both Canada and the United States.

The power of good example is the strongest force in the world. It surpasses preachers; it excels good resolutions; it is better than agreements unfulfilled.

If we as a nation, by our good example, can contribute to the peaceful well-being of the fellowship of nations, our course through the years will not have been in vain.

We who survive have profited by the good example of our fellow Americans who gave their lives in war. On these surrounding hills of Virginia they rest—thousands upon thousands—in the last bivouac of the dead. Below us, across the river, we see a great capital of a great nation.

The past and the present unite in the prayer that America will ever seek the ways of peace, and by her example at home and abroad speed the return of good will among men.

Miss Esau today announced her appointments of committees to carry on the drive, and planned to have the campaign in full swing by tomorrow. Roll call headquarters will be at her residence, 1920 Poinsettia street, because Red Cross headquarters has no telephone, she said. A WORD OF COMFORT

Lowering your faith and your hopes makes them meaningless and empty of inspiration or power; it degrades the highest and best elements in your character.

Gradually and patiently toning up your thoughts and actions to the level of your ideal, and in time you will find the worthy traditions you received from your forefathers will result in the dedication of your everyday life to splendid endeavor.

"The true courage amid your sorrow but God assures you of victory if you keep on trying."

Two Santa Anans At Fresno State

FRESNO, Nov. 11.—Avis Blades and Frances Curl are enrolled at the Fresno State College for the Fall semester, according to the annual student directory which was issued at the college this week. Total enrollment is shown to be over 2300, a figure which tops last year's record of about 2200.

Passage of the teachers college liberalization bill by the state legislature last spring is believed by college authorities to have been a factor in the increased registration.

Both Blades and Curl are enrolled as juniors at Fresno State.

COAST GUARD AND NAVY RUSH AID TO FLIERS

An unidentified airplane, believed to be Navy ship from San Diego, fell into the ocean off Dana Point at 10 o'clock this morning. Distress signals were immediately sent up.

M. E. Stokes, paving contractor of Dana Point, reported the accident immediately, and two coast guard cutters were sent to the spot from San Pedro. At the same time, two Navy planes were ordered up from San Diego. Stokes reported that two planes were flying very high over Dana Point when one of the planes developed motor trouble and fell. The other plane immediately circled and landed, and later went up again.

The ship was reported to carry pantoons. It was impossible to see the plane from shore, due to a heavy fog about a mile out. The plane is believed to have landed about a mile and half at sea.

(Copyright, 1935, by Paul Mallon)

The speeches to be delivered at the American Bankers' association convention will bring good news during the next few days. At least those prepared in advance by New Dealers and others contained highly optimistic opinions concerning the existing financial situation. There will be no threats of inflation or deflation, but hints that everything will go along as it is for the present.

Incidentally, the daily banking newspaper, American Banker, compiled figures recently showing that banks now hold $3.44 per cent of the federal treasury debt, compared with 15.34 per cent back in 1920.

CONFERENCE

The three Cabinet members most welcome at the White House these days are Henry Morgenthau, Henry Wallace and Jim Farley. Without even telephoning Secretary McIntyre they slip in and out the back doors at all hours of the day and night.

Their popularity gives a clue to President Roosevelt's immediate strategy. Mr. Morgenthau's demand for economy in spending is slowly commending itself to the President for the beneficial effect it may have on eastern conservatives. That means a slump in the prestige of Spenders Harry Hopkins and Harold Ickes. With Mr. Wallace the president confers only on ways and means to hold the west, especially if the Supreme Court should knock out the processing tax.

All reports to the contrary, the President is eminently satisfied with Jim's political work. He would like to retain him as national chairman for the 1936 campaign but fears it would draw hot attacks. But Jim will run the show anyway.

ITALY

American naval experts are warm in admiration of the British Admiralty's handling of its forces in the Mediterranean. They rank the disposition of the grand fleet as the finest exhibition of blockading tactics in history.

On their battle map a wide strip of red marks the alignment of British ships which seal up entry or escape through the Straits of Gibraltar. An even larger crimson belt portrays the massed strength of British vessels anchored off Alexandria at the entrance to the Suez Canal, through which Italian legions now in Ethiopia must be supplied. Standing off Marseilles—and near Italian ports—is the French fleet, a possible British ally. Bottled between these powerful fighting units is Mussolini's navy.

The inexpert talk gibly of Mussolini's ability to bomb enemy battleships from the air. But the only British vessels within aerial range of Italian air bases are a few destroyers and submarines. The Alexandria units might be reached—with great difficulty—by bombing expeditions from Il Duce's African possessions, which explains why London is so insistent that Mussolini withdraw from Libya. But a dusk-to-dawn shift of the endangere ships toward the coast of Asia Minor would place them out of range.

WASHINGTON

Despite some Republican gains in the recent elections the GOP is still a long distance from the White House. Fletchters concede off the record that their victories were important psychologically rather than politically. They will buck up machine morale and loosen the money bags.

What the GOP has accomplished is to shove its foot within the presidential door instead of having it slammed in their face. Had they lost the New York Assembly and the Philadelphia Mayoralty, even the most savage anti-New Dealers would have given up the ghost. Now they will work and spend to defeat the administration. They point out that Mr. Roosevelt still faces a possibly obstreperous Congress, internal dissension, the prospect of a business slump, war across the sea. They are gambling that he will stub his toe.

The practical boys know that the Philadelphia mayoralty was the key fight. The Democrats now control Pittsburgh and the state government. Had they carried Philadelphia and dominated the political machinery there, Mr. Roosevelt's chance of winning the Keystone State in 1936 might have been rosy. It would compensate for the threatened loss of New York. It would have polished off the GOP once and for all. But the "rivers wards" stood firm against the Farleyites.

Looking at it another way, GOP may have reason to gloat. They figure that they have tripled their electoral college vote over what Herbert Hoover polled in 1932. That's a great gain, though not enough.

On the basis of present returns Republican chieftains feel they will carry thirteen states in 1936 for an electoral vote of 196. They may be slightly optimistic, but here's what they list on their side of the political ledger: All New England states, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Michigan, Ohio. Mr. Hoover got only 59 electoral votes.

There are five states with 88 electoral votes—or more than enough to give them the winning majority of 266—which the GOP plans to cultivate. They are Kansas, Missouri, Tennessee, California and Illinois. Prospects don't look bright in any of these states, with the possible exception of Kansas (if Alf Landon is nominated), but that's the territory where the Republicans must make hay.

HIDE-OUTS

A scramble is on among senators to get office space vacated by the Supreme court in the capitol building. All senators are given expansive suites in the senate office building a block away, but only the chosen few are permitted extra hide-out offices in the Capitol building near the senate chamber. The few chosen lately included Senators La Follette, Hayden, Black, George and Jim Byrnes, which may give you an idea of who's what around the senate.

FRIENDLINESS

There seemed to be some personal bitterness inside the Supreme court at the last session, but it is gone now. The justices naturally develop personal antagonism during their long bouts in chambers. Since returning from their summer vacation, however, they have been fraternizing freely, frequently chatting together outside the new building on leaving. Whether they will still be speaking to each other in a few months remains to be seen.

SATURDAY

Despite Tammany's sweeping gains in the New York City Board of Aldermen political insiders expect the Tiger to remain on his best behavior until the grand comeback planned for the fall of 1937. For instance, it's unlikely that the aldermen will try to block LaGuardia's plan to abolish useless county offices. This reform will cost a number of the faithful their jobs—but the popular mandate was so definite on the subject that Tammany is hardly likely to take a chance on flouting it. The boys are well aware that there are times when it pays to cultivate the appearance of virtue.

Lumber, carpet, boots and shoes, and automobile associations are bucking violently against NRA regulations...Time is nearly up for FDR to appoint the new Federal Reserve Board...Railroads must buy Gutfrey code coal or quit hauling the mails...If the Gutfrey act is sustained...Lots of people think the Supreme Court passes judgment upon the wisdom or un wisdom of acts of Congress, but it never does—it merely decides the question of power...If Congress legislates foolishly, the remedy lies in the people...Imports of butter jumped 3300 per cent this year, corn 4100 per cent, wheat 81 per cent, and edible cattle 400 per cent.

STRIPPED

that their opponents will now have to share the onus of solving intricate state problems.

Similarly Republicans are enormously cheered because they saved Philadelphia. The Democrats really did expect to win there with Edward Kelly—but at least they derive considerable consolation at the narrowness of their defeat. Astute observers remark that the Philadelphia result shows what money can do and that the GOP is now able to raise the money with which to do it.

The New York picture appears to be settling back to its former comfortable status in which the Republicans run the state and Tammany runs New York City and both are perfectly happy. Local New Deal and Fusion dreams are fading fast. But backstage GOP leaders aren't kidding themselves that this necessarily implies a national victory next year.

They realize that eastern triumphs—while morally valuable—cannot safely be taken as a barometer of sentiment in other sections.

DIFFERENCE

Father Coughlin's new tactics of proclaiming Roosevelt and Ruth as the "right kind" of Congressmen is elected next year indicates he is falling in line with the ideas of practical business men who are interested in politics.

More and more they are coming to the conclusion that there's no sense in wasting money trying to beat Roosevelt with nobody. They figure it is cheaper, easier and more efficient to handcuff him with an anti-New Deal House of Representatives. Even the Senate isn't worth too expensive an effort—since it would still be Democratic if all the Democrats whose terms expire next year were beaten.

ANNOUNCE NEW TALK PROGRAM

JAYSEE GROUP RETURNS FROM GEOLOGY TRIP

Thirty Santa Ana Junior college students with their instructor, H. A. Scott, will return tonight from the first overnight geology field trip.

The group left Saturday in an eight-car caravan on the trip which included visits to the Pisgah lava flow and crater, Newberry canyon, Essel caves, Amboy Salt beds and the Cajon pass.

On Friday the group visited Cajon summit, Victorville, Barstow and Newberry Springs. It visited the First Methodist church, at the morning service yesterday.

The speaker pointed out that the Bible recognizes the combative instinct in man as one of the driving forces of personality, but offers countless opportunities for expression of that instinct for constructive purposes.

"When God urged man to subdue the earth, He opened the way for exploration, pioneering, the conquest of the air, the building of bridges and other great fields," he said. "The Hoover dam and the reclamation of vast waste lands still found in the United States are outlets for the fighting instinct."

As his second defense of the right to fight, the speaker urged his congregation to enlist in a great cause, to strive for uprightness. "Each individual must fight to maintain his proper spiritual self against the forces of evil," he said.

In closing the pastor brought up the popular question, "What if an enemy should attack our country?" For answer, he said that the United States and the community are constantly attacked by enemies, poor housing, unsanitary conditions, crime, liquor traffic and others.

"It is more important that we protect our homes against disease and other present enemies than to speculate on the remote possibility of attack by other nations in the future," he said.

KIDDER VOTED BEST-LOOKING REDHEAD AT U. S. C.

The best looking redhead stood for almost anything. And the public would have responded, too. Men and women, and kids, too, who never have been to jaysee games would have gladly paid for the privilege of seeing big-mouthed Joe at close range.

Brown is U. C. L. A. rooster No. 1 among the film colony. They say he helps more than one athlete through school, gives numerous others work in his pictures.

But it's no use gals, "Red" is already engaged to a charming Balboa lass.

And did you know that Kidder was in Howard Jones' doghouse after the S. C.-California game? The "Head Man" caught "Red" eating a bar of candy or committing some such dastardly breach of training regulations. And gave Kidder Hail Columbia, publicly and privately.

However, all is well again. Kid-

Due to a number of causes, cold weather and limited advertising in particular, gate receipts slumped off about 15 per cent at the Santa Ana jaysee-U. C. L. A. frosh football game last week. The attraction was hot, and the game vastly superior to the S. C. frosh tussle which drew around $630. Yet the customers didn't report.

Had they but known, the Dons could have drawn $1000 by announcing the appearance of famed film comedian Joe E. Brown. The actor is regular, and would have

Friday Night's Games

Pomona at Santa Ana; Chaffey at San Bernardino; Citrus at Riverside; Fullerton, bye.

There is an accepted saying that football teams are made at spring practice. Similarly, trackmen are developed in fall training classes.

At U. S. C. it is no secret that Coach Dean Cromwell expects Lucian Wilson, captain of Santa Ana's Dons last year, to be his best hurdler. The graduation of another Santa Anaan, Norman Paul, gives Wilson ample opportunity.

Cromwell moved heaven and earth to land the ex-Don, who ran 14.9 in the highs and 23.9 in the lows to win both at the Southern California jaysee championship meet.

Wilson has one of the softest jobs on the S. C. campus. For his meals he "slings hash" in the women's dormitory.

Dots and dashes:

Art Stranske, best frosh back at S. C. last year, is saving a year of eligibility by not playing this season. Bolts on his neck cost him three weeks, put him so far behind that he has turned in his suit. . . . The thought still persists: North Carolina in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day. . . . Dr. R. A. Dunn's Bolamola picked up two purses of $50 each for the Santa Ana veterinarian last week. Bolamola goes to Bay Meadows soon. . . . B. D. Parker trained the glasses on "Monk" Moscrip when Moscrip went back to try for the field goal that beat S. C. He said Moscrip's face was drawn and ghostly. . . .

Profiting by past experience,

Allen heads at Fullerton seated Santa Ana and Fullerton high school students on opposite sides of the field at their "Big Game."

. . . The Saints used several new plays, one of 'em a hidden-ball trick that was a honey. Carroll Joy, left half, is a magician with a pugskin and he foisted the Fullerton ends time and again by clever ball-handling. . . . Little Bill Foote is out of the doghouse. He's a good coach now that his boys are winning. . . . Those who scolded him most will be comparing him to "Tex" Oliver if the Saints beat San Diego Saturday.

A four-way deadlock would automatically install Chaffey on the thrown as Coach Bert Heiser's grididers would hold victories over the other three claimants of the crown. But if San Bernardino decisions Chaffey and then Chaffey beats Riverside, a play-off will be needed to determine the winner among Citrus, Santa Ana and Riverside.

Unleashing an attack that completely bewildered the Citrus Owls and maintaining a stout defense that checked Coach Al Clay's running plays, Chaffey's Panthers ended time and again by clever ball-handling. . . . "Lefty" O'Doul, now managing the San Francisco Seals, says Joe DiMaggio, his young outfielder who'll join the Yankees next spring, is as good a player as ever came from the coast, including O'Doul. . . . Vannie Albanese, star fullback of the undefeated Syracuse eleven, gets so much fan mail he has to have a secretary to answer it. . . . Vic Hanson, Syracuse coach, has dropped 20 pounds since the season opened. . . .

Jack Sharkey, the old Petunia fancier, wants $50,000 to fight Joe Lewis. . . . That's pretty high wages for one round, which is just what Jack would last. . . . A guy who got knocked out by one of Carnera's round-house rights has no business in there with Joe

Newport Dredging Work Completed On Wednesday

CIVIC WORKERS DISCUSS PLANS FOR PROGRAM

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 11.—The last of 7,973,000 cubic yards of material to be removed from the floor of Newport Harbor will be dumped on the ocean front Wednesday, it was announced today by Resident Engineer Roscoe J. Hildebrand. This will complete the $2,000,000 harbor improvement project, with the exception of leveling certain parts of the harbor floor.

Jetty extension work has been completed and Rohl-Connelly company barges will be moved to San Pedro tomorrow, it was announced. Approximately 140,000 tons of rock were used in building extensions to the east and west jetties at the harbor entrance.

Last of the four dredges used in the project is the John McMullen, San Francisco Bridge company, which is working north of Balboa Island. The John McMullen will be moved Wednesday.

Approximately 300 men were given employment. What virtually amounted to a safety record was set, there being no fatalities among workmen, and only a few minor injuries.

The west jetty was extended 675 feet, to a length of 2800 feet; the east jetty was extended 950 feet, to a length of 1700 feet. The entire project was under the supervision of the United States War department engineering corps.

Preliminary plans for a celebration to mark the completion of the project were discussed at a meeting of district civic workers Saturday night at the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce office with Dr. Albert Solland presiding.

Supervisor William C. Jerome represented the board of supervisors of Orange county, and Councilman Irvin George Gordon represented the city of Newport Beach. No decision was made.

TUSTIN W. C. T. U.
HEARS PEACE TALK

TUSTIN, Nov. 11.—"Peace" was the theme of an interesting talk given by the Rev. Julian Budlong, of Santa Ana, at the regular monthly meeting of the Tustin W. C. T. U. held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles A. Miller, East Fourth street. The speaker was introduced by Dr. Evalene Peo, former chairman.

Professor Smith stated that man of 25,000 years ago was not the savage who killed, just to be killing, or beat his victims over the head with a stone hammer or club, for amusement. They were a cultured, peace loving race, with a friendly attitude toward all things, and most of all they possessed a love of nature, he said.

Professor Smith said the education was making man think that he was master of nature, and by so doing was depriving himself of many beautiful things.

The meeting was in charge of George A. Portus, president. Reports from the different committees were heard after the dinner. Entertainment was furnished by Julie Claire Kramer, soprano, who gave several selections, she was accompanied by Dr. Raymond Evans, concert pianist of Los Angeles.

JACKMAN GIVES OBSERVATIONS ON FAR EAST

Observations from the Far East on attitudes of the peoples of the various nations, starting with Japan, will be presented in a series of articles written specially for The Register by T. W. Jackman, former pastor of the Santa Ana Foursquare church, who is now on a trip to Palestine.

The first article follows:

"It will be my endeavor from time to time to convey through the columns of The Register the current press opinion of the several countries through which we will travel."

"To be perfectly frank I do not believe that anyone is able to discuss with wisdom the affairs of any country when he is there for very few days. Consequently I believe that to carry the opinions as gleaned from the press will be of assistance in seeing things, not as a foreigner, but as a resident of the country in which we find ourselves. I believe this is the only fair way to make decisions."

Suspend Judgment

"If we Americans would abide by the suggestion of Dr. Payson J. Treat, professor of Far Eastern Affairs, of Stanford, when he stated that 'we should suspend judgment on Far Eastern questions with which we are not well acquainted this attitude would go far in bringing about better relations between the neighbors of the Pacific."

"The declaration recently made by Japan's North China garrison commander at Tientsin to aid the Chinese people and promote their welfare through stabilization of their political conditions deserves no small attention under the existing circumstances in the Far East."

"The declaration made by the commander contains three positions, namely: 1—Through exclusion of the anti-Manchu and anti-Japanese elements from North China; 2—economic independence of North China; 3—creation of the quintuple provincial federate government for North China against the possible invasion of communists."

Agitators Cause Trouble

"It is only natural that the anti-Manchu and anti-Japanese agitators in North China that have always been the source of disorder in the locality should be thoroughly removed. It was because of their presence that the peace in North China was seriously disturbed and the so-called North China incident took place some time ago."

"I have noticed that it seems to be the general opinion in Japan that communism is making tremendous inroads in China, and that of course presents a major problem to the Japanese."

"The communists are not only the enemies of Japan but of the whole world. Personally, I would rather see the Japanese war lords rule the northern provinces of China than to have those same provinces become states of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, as they surely would if it were not for Japan's watchful and aggressive program. The world owes Japan a vote of thanks for what she has done in Manchukuo and what she is going to do in the five northern provinces of China."

Build Greater Wall

"It seems inevitable that there shall be established the Quintuple Provincial Federate government, economically independent of the Nanking government and this alone will build a greater wall than the Great Wall of China to keep out the communists and thus forestall the dread possibility of China's millions becoming communistic."

"It has been but little more than half a century since Japan changed from a feudal land, yet she has in present."

KNOCK OUT COLDS IN FIRST ROUND

Give Colds No Chance to Wear You Down and Put You on Your Back!

Don't daily with a cold! It may end seriously—in the form of flu or pneumonia.

When a cold strikes, strike back with redoubled force. Depend on no makeshift remedies.

A cold calls for a cold treatment, not a preparation good for all kinds of ailments.

A cold also calls for internal treatment, for a cold is an internal infection.

Make Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine your treatment and you have hit a cold a body blow.

Bromo Quinine is effective because it is a cold tablet made expressly for the treatment of colds and nothing else. It routs colds quickly because it is internal treatment, fourfold in effect.

First, it opens the bowels, an advisable step in treating a cold.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital measure.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

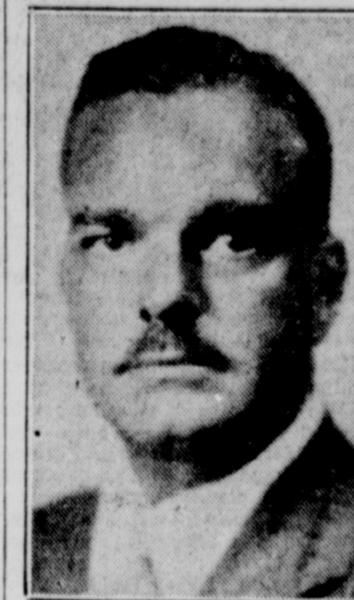

Be wise and play safe! At the first sign of a cold go right to your druggist for a package of Bromo Quinine. Begin taking the tablets at once, two every four hours.

In 24 hours, if taken promptly, Bromo Quinine will often check a cold.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. When you ask for it, insist upon getting what you ask for. The few pennies' cost may save you a lot of worry and money.

First, it opens the bowels, an

Wheel-Store Big Success In Business

By WILL CAMPBELL

Carl Doss, inventive merchant, is shown below with his store on wheels which has aided him in building up a large business after having met discouragement in operating an ordinary type of business. The store, mounted on a truck, is Doss' own idea.

Although the total monetary loss was small when compared with citrus and other crops, avocado growers in the principal areas affected by the recent windstorm suffered substantial losses in both fruit and trees, according to reports made this week to the California Growers of America.

Orange county, particularly Yorba Linda, Fullerton and Tustin, the Los Angeles county foothill areas, and the Ventura county districts of Camarillo and Oxnard, felt the most severe winds and damage, it was stated.

Seven per cent of the total crop of the state is estimated to have been blown off of trees in the affected areas, it was stated. Some mature fruit was salvaged, but a sizeable part was a total loss, as were hundreds of trees, the final check-up showed.

Damage to Orange county crops ran as high in some areas as 50 per cent, it was felt, with the bulk of the damage being sustained in the northern and eastern portions of the state.

Court Notes

The state of California has filed suit in superior court against Ray Lambert and other Orange county property owners in the Newport Heights area, to condemn several odd-shaped parcels of land wanted for highway right-of-way in connection with the Arches grade separation project.

F. A. McFarren, of Santa Ana, who was injured when struck by an automobile at Main and Washington streets, Santa Ana, lost his $15,000 damage suit against D. T. Bauman and Samuel Rothman in an opinion just handed down by Superior Judge James L. Allen. The case was heard last week.

P. K. Handy, Jr., of Santa Ana, was sentenced to one year in the county jail as a condition of three years' probation granted him by Superior Judge G. K. Scovell on a charge of arson. The sentence runs concurrently with a six months' sentence given Handy last week for violating previous probation on a drunk-driving charge.

Eloquent of the Thanksgiving season were program details for a monthly meeting of First Baptist J. O. C. class last week in the home of Mrs. W. B. Lockett, 2036 North Broadway.

Business, in charge of the president, Mrs. Ada Davison, included a change in the monthly meeting night from the first to the second Tuesday in the month, beginning in January. In December the class will hold a Christmas party, the date for which will be determined later.

First Christian Missionary

Mrs. M. Northrop Wyatt who is visiting here after spending several years in British East Africa, was guest speaker at the meeting of First Christian Missionary society Thursday afternoon. She spoke of life below the equator, where the climate is similar to ours with the seasons reversed. Approximately 17,000 white persons are settled there, she said, including mainly government and oil company employees, who have set up amusements similar to those we know, hockey, tennis, etc.

Mrs. Albert Raymond, program chairman, introduced the speaker, while Mrs. C. E. Price presided over the business meeting. Devotionals were led by Mrs. Guy Penn; Mrs. Mills offered prayer, and Mrs. Herbert Nicks sang a special solo accompanied by Mrs. D. H. Tibbals.

PATTERN 2500
By ANNE ADAMS

Two "must haves" that appear on Fashion's scoreboard, and in this clever design, are Smartness and Practicality. Therefore it's a frock you can't afford to be without this winter, for it's grand and warm beneath a topcoat, and makes a trim appearance at club meetings, church gathering, or at the office. MIXING BOWL

It is time to start plans for Christmas greeting cards. If you want something individual, artistic, expressing you personally, let me command to you, block printed cards, making your own block on heavy linoleum. Select the simplest sort of design, perhaps trees common to your locality, something already in print unless you can draw. Make a tissue paper transfer. Place face down on the linoleum and with two simple little gadgets, dig out the background, leaving only the sketchy outline of the true design. Art departments have the tools, the ink, and the information for inking your own rolls and printing the cards. However, after wading through a home-making orgy, I have decided that it is wisdom to take your design to a printing place and let them do the work.

This year I am resurrecting a linoleum block some eight years old, graceful trees with a mountain peak in the background. It will go on a 12-inch strip of heavy paper (six inches wide) the design inside, one end sloped to resemble a letter flap, really a letter when folded and sealed with wax. The colors will be white paper, design in black, with highlights on trees and mountain peak in silver paint, which I will put on myself. The greeting on the card may be printed or done in block letters if you can print creditably.

Canine Quintuplets Face Future Doggedly

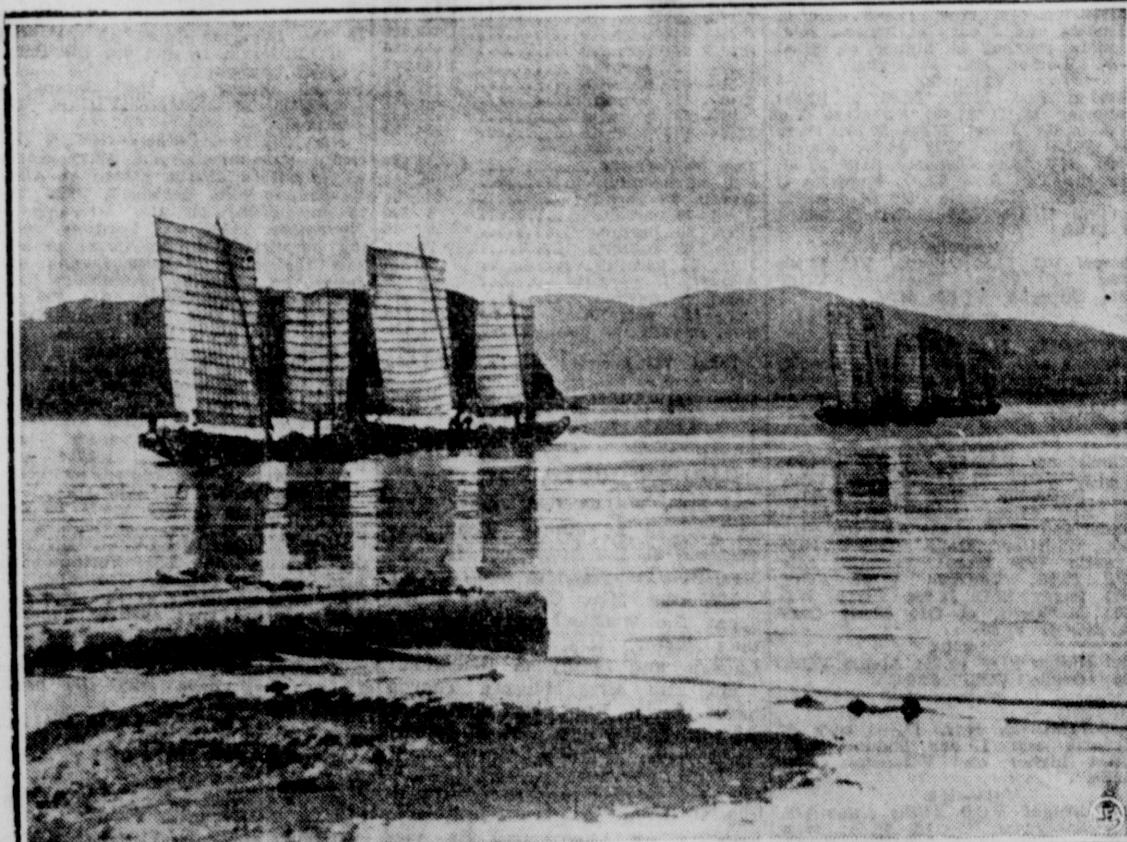

The serious expressions of these Spitz puppies, owned by Fred Craft of Chil, N. Y., must be due to an early realization that, whatever the future holds, they are in for a dog's life. Or maybe they are a bit put out in the realization that, as quintuplets, they have to take second place to those five Dionne girls up in Canada.

This heap of charred wreckage was thoroughly examined by federal and New York state authorities, investigating the crash of the 20-passenger craft in which Ruth Nichols, famed aviatrix, was critically injured and her pilot, Harry Hublitz, killed. Four passengers, all honeymooners, were slightly burned. A down draft is believed to have caused the huge ship to crash into a tree on a farm near Troy, N. Y. The plane was owned by Clarence Chamberlin and had been used by Miss Nichols and Hublitz to carry passengers on short trips.

Where Soviet and Japanese Outposts Clash

Serving as a natural boundary in places between Japanese dominated Manchukuo and Soviet Russia, the Amur river has become the locale for fatal clashes between the border guards of the two countries. The picturesque square sailed junks that carry its commerce are pictured above outlined against the mountainous banks of the Amur. Russia has proposed a joint commission to settle the boundary question.

Sixty Saved When Flames Sweep Sanitarium

Sixty patients in the La Vina Sanitarium, in the foothills near Altadena, Southern California, narrowly escaped death or serious injury when a raging brush fire swept the area, burning everything in its path. Only the twisted remains of steel cots and a portion of the wall was left standing when the fire passed.

She May Be the 'Maestro' Soon

To the traditional "Do you take this woman . . ." a certain orchestra leader soon may respond, "Yowsah!" Ben Bernie, self-styled "old maestro," is shown above with the rumored object of his affections, Dorothy Wesley, 25, Miami Beach, Fla., swimmer and daughter of a Hungarian countess. Bernie, whose real name is Anzelvitz, was recently divorced from his wife, Rose, of New York.

Fights Off Beauty Handicap

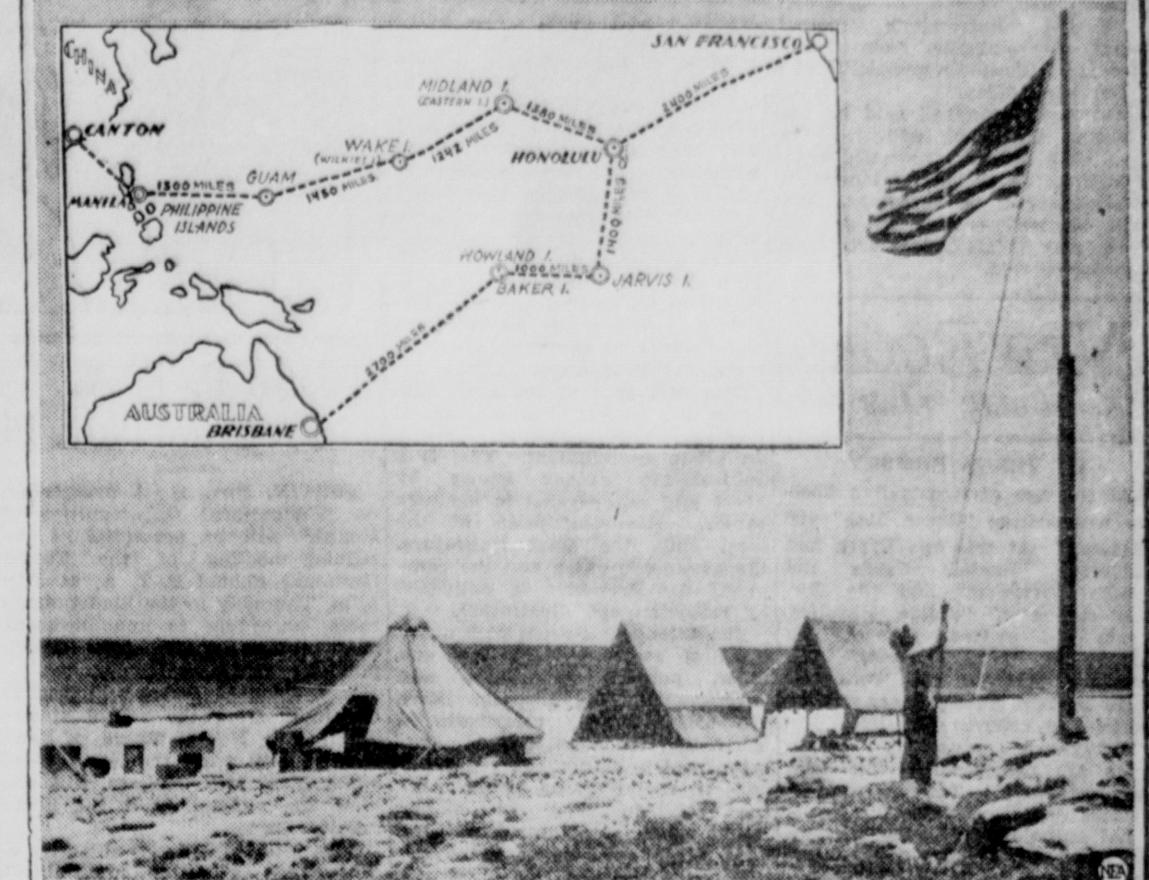

Being a beauty contest winner was more a hindrance than a help to Miss Helen Wood of Nashville, Tenn., shown here, as it has been to many other such lucky ones when they got to Hollywood. But Miss Wood didn't let that bother her. She took daily dramatic lessons for months, and now she's signed by a studio and well on her way to success.

Look! Reunion in Hollywood!

What's this? Joan Blondell escorted by her former husband, George Barnes? Right you are. The parted couple's presence together was the big surprise at the premiere of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" in Los Angeles.

U. S. Annexes Pacific Isles as Air Route Links

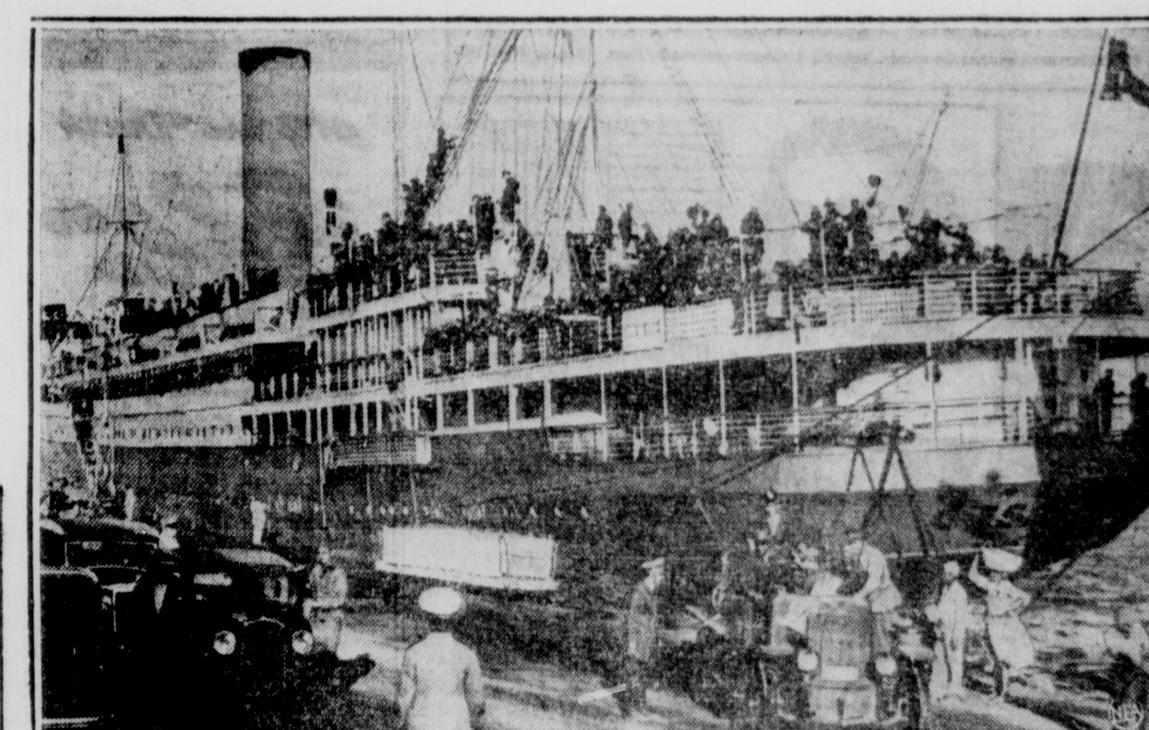

Shrouded in secrecy for more than half a year, American "colonization" of Howland, Baker and Jarvis Islands, shown in map above, for use as stepping-stones in a projected transpacific air route to Australia and New Zealand, has been revealed. An American citizen, Harry L. Theiss, is pictured above raising the Stars and Stripes over Howland Island after four Hawaiians, American citizens, had been placed on each island to make them United States property. Though Great Britain is believed to have rival claims to the three Pacific "pin-points," the U. S. State Department asserts that official American claims go back to 1856.

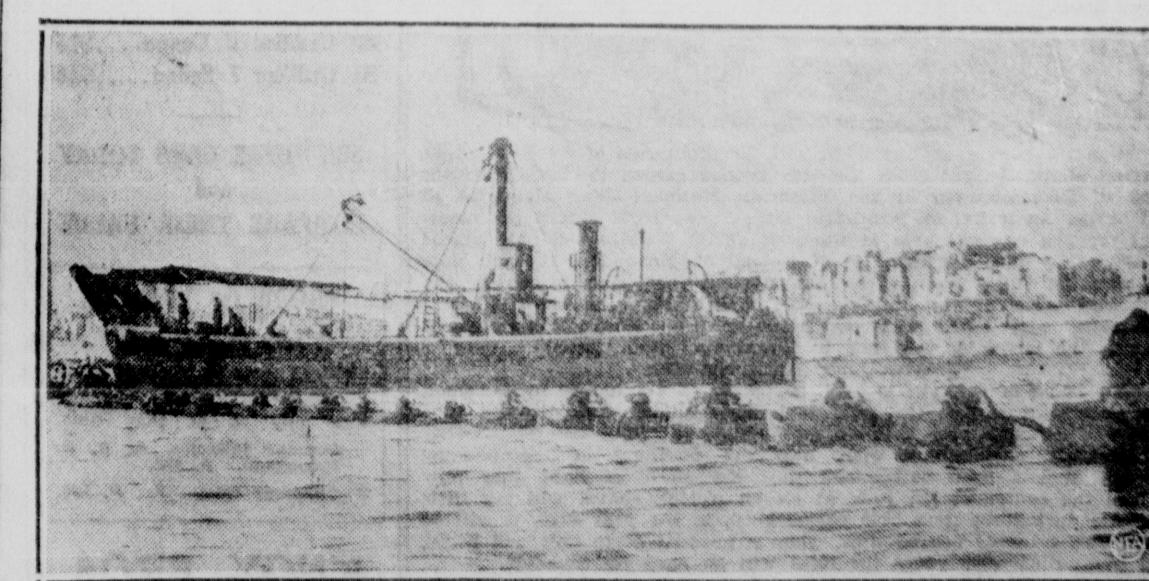

Ethiopia's Benedict Arnold Bows to His New Master

(Copyright, 1935, NEA Service, Inc.)
Here you see Haile Selassie Gugsa, son-in-law of Emperor Haile Selassie, sealing his notoriety as Ethiopia's traitor. In a photo down to Rome from Adigrat, telephoned to London and rushed to America, Gugsa is pictured (in center foreground with back to camera), bowing before white-bearded General de Bono, Italian commander, following his carefully staged surrender together with household and soldiers. Subsequently de Bono made Gugsa governor of the conquered Tigre province.

This is why Great Britain, London reports state, refuses to withdraw her huge fleet from the Mediterranean, pending discussion of French proposals for peace between Italy and Ethiopia. The transport Cesare is shown docking at Tripoli with thousands of Italian troops, part of 17,000 rushed from Rome to the Libyan desert on the border of British-controlled Egypt.

Refusal of British authorities to admit Italian ships to the harbor at Lazzaretto, in Malta, is indicative of the critical state of affairs in the explosive Mediterranean zone as the League of Nations seeks to stop the Ethiopian war. A British ship is shown building the boom across Lazzaretto Harbor to keep out undesirable ships while the island prepares for any emergency.

S. M. U. GRID COACH UNDER OBSERVATION

PASADENA, Nov. 11.—(UP)—Matty Bell, coach of Southern Methodist University's football team, was suffering from a mild attack of Chronic appendicitis at a hotel here today.

Dr. Leon Campbell said he was treating the coach with ice-bags, and that unless unexpected complications developed no immediate operation will be necessary. Bell will be well enough to see his team play U.C.L.A. this afternoon, the doctor said.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

BY VERA RAMSEY

At the age of twenty-five Shelley had written "Queen Mab" and "Alastor." At this age Byron had published "English Bards and Scotch Reviewers" and the first two cantos of "Childe Harold;" Keats had written all of his poetry. In "Trial Balances," Ann Winslow presents the works of some modern young poets, whose works she believes will live.

Thirty-two promising young poets are presented in this critical anthology. The book is a distinct departure from the traditional anthology of young writers which printed a poem a page and left no impression of the possibilities of any contributor. Each poet in "Trial Balances" has a section of verse introduced by a critical article on his work written by a prominent poet or critic.

Robert Hillier, Witter Bynner, James Southall Wilson, Edna Lou Walton, Malcolm Cowley, Allen Tate, Marianne Moore, Louis Untermeyer, Jessica Nelson North, Yvor Winters, John Gould Fletcher, Horace Gregory, Stephen Vincent Benét, Wallace Stevens, Babbette Deutsch, Stanley J. Kunitz, Guy Montgomery and James Ralston Caldwell are among those who contributed criticism.

There is a great variety of content and technique represented. This ranges from Benét's, the southern lyricist, to Lionel Wiggin, the poet of mood; to J. V. Cunningham, the scholastic; to Alfred Hayes, proletarian; to C. E. Hudeburg, experimentalist.

Many of the poems have appeared in poetry and general magazines. However, this anthology serves the double purpose of presenting as a unit the best work of each poet, and of providing the public with a basis for comparison and evaluation. Most important the book is filled with the fresh ardors and dynamic convictions of youth.

"The Solar System and Its Origin" by Henry Norris Russell sums up in clear, informal style, the present state of knowledge and theory concerning the solar system. He tells first of the dynamic properties of the system. The reader is told of the tremendous isolation in space, the probable age of the planets, and of how, probably about two billion years ago, the earth began an independent existence.

The author then takes up the physical and chemical properties of the system. He describes the important work done here and abroad during the last few years.

The temperatures and atmospheres of the planets are next discussed with incidental bearing on the possibility of life upon them. Finally he considers the various theories of the origin of the solar system. He discusses the theories of Chamberlain and Moulton, of Jeans and Jeffreys. No really satisfactory method has yet been suggested. It appears to be likely, however, that the earth's origin, important though it seems, was the merest incident in a far vaster process.

The popular reader who desires a better scientific knowledge will welcome this book. The author gives a very understanding exposition of the problems, theories, and discoveries concerning the solar system. The man of science, who is a specialist in other fields and wishes to acquaint himself with some of the fundamental problems of modern astronomy will also find this book of great value.

The specialist in any profession is heard with respect. Alfred E. Smith in "A Citizen and His Government" brings the fruits of his life's work to the reader who is interested in politics.

The first part of the book outlines the steps in the political rise of any citizen who begins in an urban environment. This is a subject the author knows by heart and can parallel in his own career. His description of the local club, the state legislature, the governor's office and the campaign for President is enlivened by many an apt illustration.

The second half deals with questions of social welfare, law and order, public expenditures and governmental organization. Here are some of the reminiscences, concerning the Eighteenth Amendment, which marks the reappearance in recent times, of the century old document of state's rights. A brief summary of New York City's government forms the basis of a detailed review of the anomalous situations still existing in the management of a Metropolis. The ex-Governor takes occasion to reaffirm the reasons for his long standing conviction that the mechanics of country control are outward and need a thorough-going consolidation to fit them to deal with modern exigencies.

Other new books in the library are:

HOPE OF ARMISTICE DAY

We celebrate today another anniversary of the close of the World war.

Well does Irvin Cobb suggest this morning that we celebrate the closing of all wars. We believe on this question America is almost a unit.

We think we can unreservedly affirm that we are using our intelligence in planning to avoid all conflict. We were in the spirit of opposition to war in 1916.

President Wilson received many votes of people who were stirred by the slogan—"He kept us out of war." Then, shortly after the inauguration, we entered the conflict.

We see now exactly the cause that brought us in. It was our trade interests. The correspondence between our President and our Ambassador to Great Britain clarifies our vision greatly.

It was not so much principle as business. It was not so much "making the world safe for democracy," as it was making it safe for dollars.

Having learned such a lesson, we heartily support our President now in the Neutrality act, but more than this, in going farther and declaring that those who trade with these countries do so at their own risk.

We hope that those people, and especially those nations, that are already beginning to sound the slogan, "Preserve the freedom of the seas" and that the war of 1812 was fought for such freedom, shall not cause us to change our determination to stay off this highway, with goods for warring nations, until the fight is over.

We have learned to apply the principle to ocean travel that we do to highway travel. If contests with strikers or fire hose or anything else impede or endanger our travel along a particular highway, we do not organize our neighbors and go down that particular road to demonstrate our rights—we proceed to our destination by another route and let the constituted authorities settle the controversy.

If these belligerents want to fight, they will have to do so, but this nation does not propose to be drawn into it. Other nations can be jealous of us—the European countries, looking across the seas, note evidences of greater isolation on our part, power of self-containment and a determination to keep out of conflict. Our example will aid in teaching them. The World war may have been for us, in a sense, a war that ended wars, but not in the manner in which it was contemplated.

It ended war because we saw its havoc and its destruction. It would certainly destroy our civilization if we had another and we are through with it forever.

As we view the marching columns today and cheer the boys who went to the front, they now, as fathers, their wives as mothers and the whole nation can breathe easier. We can do this because of the crystallizing sentiment, that is moving the hearts of men in our country and everywhere, to settle disputes in a peaceful manner and not by killing those who differ with us, or, may we say, killing those who are sent out to fight for those who differ with us.

We can gain much by contrasting, in our minds, our outlook and our ambition with that of the parents of the Italian boys in Ethiopia.

CHANGING CHARACTER OF CHRISTMAS TOYS

The toy manufacturers of the country are to stage a show in New York next week. It is estimated that the annual output of their industry amounts to about $200,000,000. Advance orders for this industry indicate a 10 per cent increase over last year, with prices at a continuing low level.

The director of the manufacturers' organization notes a trend toward a more pacificistic conception in the mood of the people of the country in the absence of toys having to do with military equipment. The toy soldier, so marked a plaything for boys in past year, is no longer in demand, and war games are no longer featured.

The ABC blocks have a picture of a Boy Scout instead of a soldier for the block bearing the letter "S". G-men in the Federal war against crime, cowboys, and Indians are still of interest to the children, and their interest is recognized by the toy makers.

The new scientific discoveries and inventions are to have a conspicuous place in the toy makers' products. There will be a toy electric eye by means of which a radio can be shut off with a flashlight. There will be a toy automobile which will be equipped with an electric device that makes it run about the room when touched by the hand. There will be a toy fire engine with a real siren.

What is very significant in the new toy setup is that the soldier has been eliminated with all the paraphernalia of war, and an educational trend is shown in many of the designs. Let us hope that it is the mark of a change of attitude on the part of people in general toward war and all its works and a greater emphasis for the coming generation on those things which make for human happiness and improvement.

PER CAPITA FOOD CONSUMPTION IN THE UNITED STATES

The Consumers' Guide, published by the A. A. A., notes some interesting facts concerning the food consumption of the people of this country from 1920 to 1933. The average amount per capita of food consumed is disclosed to be 1450 pounds per year.

Divided into three periods, comprising the years 1920-24, 1925-29, and 1930-33, there is very little change in the amount eaten during any particular period. During the period from 1920-24, 1422 pounds per person were consumed; during the 1925-29 period, the prosperity period, the amount was 1474 per person; during the 1930-33 period, the time of the depression, the figures stood at 1454 pounds.

It will be seen, from these figures, that the amount consumed is little affected by prosperity and depression. It is evident that when consumer income falls off, the people do not eat less food, although it is evident that the food consumed differs in variety.

Fresh fruits were eaten in larger quantities during the boom period than during the period preceding and succeeding the boom. The figures stand at 186 pounds for the boom period, and at 173 and 176 pounds for the periods before and after the boom period, respectively. Milk and cream were consumed in larger quantities during the depression period than during the two preceding periods. The same is true of vegetables.

There is a trend away from the eating of meats during the successive periods, which indicates that the diet of the American people is changing. In 1920-24, 135 pounds of lean meat and fish were consumed per person per year; in 1925-29, the amount was 132 pounds, and during 1930-33, there was a further decline to 130 pounds.

This study, while showing that the diet of the American people is changing in some respects, reveals the fact that the amount of food consumed remains practically stationary.

All this indicates that the first concern of the American people is to eat adequately in times of depression as well as in times of prosperity. If any economizing is to be done, it is in the kind of food consumed, and in those living costs like clothing, rents and luxuries.

There is no economizing in the amount of food. No great number of people in the United States go hungry, apparently, by reason of the changes in the business cycle.

A NEW CALL TO CHURCH

For many centuries, the people have been called to church by the pealing of a bell or a chime of bells. A new church has been built in Cranford, Middlesex, England, which has introduced a siren instead of a bell to call the people to worship.

Why the change, we are not informed. Hitherto, the bell has called to worship; the whistle or the siren has called people to work. Is it because the people have become so accustomed to the bells that they no longer call to worship, or to anything else?

Or is it because the siren sounds out with a more commanding call, in that people have become accustomed to running to fires at the sound of a siren, and might continue to run to the place from which the siren is sounded?

If it is the ordinary siren as we have it here, it might have this psychology—the first thought that a man has is that he is about to note the traffic officer pulling up at his left and the usual "What's the hurry?" Then, so happy to find, instead of a ticket, it is simply a call to worship, a person, in his gratitude, will proceed to the house of religion.

It certainly would be a strange experience if, instead of the chiming of the bells on Sunday morning, we should hear the shrieking of fire whistles all over the land. It might be worth a trial. In the face of a wan church attendance, some more urgent appeal seems to be needed to increase the congregations.

Question Of Peace Or War
Up To America—And Now

San Francisco Chronicle

Does America wish to promote peace, or to hasten war?

This question is no longer theoretical. It is immediate and practical, and what we do, or fail to do about it, may determine, this month, whether we are to live in a world rent by war or restored to peace.

Europe is trying to end the war in Africa, and to prevent war in Europe, by peaceful economic pressure. Its principal nations have closed their ports to imports from Italy, and will, in less than two weeks, also prevent the export to Italy of certain commodities calculated to prolong the war. They have not included the most important of those commodities, coal, petroleum, steel and iron, because it would do no good to deprive Italy of the privilege of getting those commodities from European sources if they could still be obtained from America. So the League committee on economic sanctions has agreed "in principle" to include these in its list of banned goods, but will not put the embargo into practice until it learns what America and Germany will do.

What America has done already is to urge our people voluntarily to refrain from exporting these things. President Roosevelt has publicly requested this course, and has announced that he is gathering information, at our ports, to learn just what exports on this list are actually going to Italy. But, just as the League nations can not make their boycott effective if the non-League nations continue their exports, so the American exporters would accomplish nothing by the voluntary action of a majority of them, if the minority continued their exports.

So the question is up to us, for practical action or inaction. If the President acts, to include these goods as implements of war (which they are) and if Germany can be induced to take the same action, the African war can be stopped without resort to arms and there will be no war in Europe, to menace and entangle America. If he does not do so, then Europe must either surrender and let the African war go on, or else stop our exports to Italy by actual force. We have made it known that we will not resist that force, if used against our ships or goods. So we shall not have the commerce, anyway. The only question is whether we will stop it at our ports, by voluntary action or by law, or whether we will drive Europe to doing it by force. In the latter case, we should be the ones to drive Europe from pacific embargo to armed blockade.

The remaining alternative would be for Europe, discouraged by our inaction, to surrender to Italy. That might confine the war to Africa now. It would only make a worse one the more certain in Europe (and probably in America) one, two or five years later.

The practical question of peace or war is up to America—now!

Our only choice is whether we shall open our eyes to the fact, or close them.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

PROFIT AND LOSS OF THE AAA

but to be listed to be acknowledged.

The entries in the loss column are quite as real if not quite so obvious.

If he is raising hogs, the farmer must reckon with the triple fact:

(1) The scarcity induced by the AAA has sent the price of pork soaring skyward.

(2) The soaring price of pork has drastically reduced the consumption of pork.

(3) The price of pork has also turned many erstwhile pork eaters to cheaper substitutes.

This kind of ultimate "loss" alongside immediate "profit" marks much of the emergency legislation of the last three years. Permanent policy must find soundness somewhere between these profit and loss columns.

PRAYER

A selfish prayer seems to me to be the strongest possible indication of a misunderstanding of God's power and intention. God is spiritual. To ask Him to produce material possessions for one's own benefit seems to me to be an affront.

Children are taught to say their prayers. Usually the first prayers are simple expressions of trust in the Fatherhood of God, purely spiritual expressions, and rightly so, to my way of thinking. But as the child grows and begins asking questions about God he is likely to be told that God is all-powerful and can give him anything he wants, and will do so if he is a good boy—good usually meaning that he does not bother the grown-ups too much. The child takes this expression literally and asks for a popgun, or a sled or a passing mark in examinations.

That sort of prayer is, I believe, the cause of many an adolescent's scorn of religion. He was told that prayer with faith would gratify his heart's desire, but nobody ever explained to him that his heart's desire would have to be in accord with eternal immutable righteousness before he could have it, and in any case that it would have to be won by his own personal understanding of righteousness.

It is difficult to explain the use of prayer to children because they are materially minded. But it has to be done. Any thoughtful mother could do it if she decided to undertake the task.

Children need faith. They need to learn to look beyond the material things and happenings to the eternal forces. Health is dependent upon knowledge of spiritual as well as physical laws. Fear, selfishness, self-will are all forces against health. Faith will drive them out and maintain health of spirit, and armed with that, one's grandfather, pop said.

Sure, pop, I know, it stumps their growth, I said, and pop said, it also strains their heart and waters their eyes and discolors their teeth, fingers and morals. When I was a young boy my father promised me a gold watch if I gave him my word that I wouldn't smoke till I was 20 years old, and I gave him my word and I kept it, and I won the gold watch, which in the course of years grew feeble and slow but never got rusty. And when my father was a young boy a gold watch was promised to him under the same conditions by his father, my grandfather and your grandfather, pop said.

Yes sir, G, I said, and pop said, When the body is fully grown, as mine is for instants, a mild addiction to tobacco probably does no harm and certain medical men even claim that it has a beneficial effect in many cases, most likely referring to their own cases, but in the case of children and growing youths, tobacco smoke most certainly has a decidedly harmful effect.

But now he cannot lie at ease And listen to the rolling seas, He moans and groans In mournful tones.

NOTHING WONDERFUL

His eyes with tears are welling. No more has he a happy home Beside the hissing, creaming foam.

Today he's got No house or lot.

And mortgaged is his dwelling.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

Many a farmer recalls sadly the days when he was not only permitted to plant potatoes, but licked if he didn't.

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Page

Me and pop was taking a walk Saturday PM and saw some little tuff kids standing on a corner smoking cigarettes, pop saying,

That's a very dressing site and I hope you are properly shocked.

Yes sir, G, I said, and pop said,

When the body is fully grown, as mine is for instants, a mild addiction to tobacco probably does no harm and certain medical men even claim that it has a beneficial effect in many cases, most likely referring to their own cases.

Yes sir, I said. Well G, pop is smoking more dangerous than parashoot jumping! I said, and pop said,

From the stand point of an insurance company it is probably less so, but that hardly enters into the question, does it?

Yes sir, because I never had much ambition to smoke but I always had greater ambitions to be a parashoot jumper, so what will you give me if I promise not to begin parashoot jumping before I'm 20? I said, and he said, I'll give you a cod liver oil switch.

Being sourcastic.
